Up North Cuisine at the Lodge at Moosehead Lake is an Adventure for Visitors and a Delight for Locals

Greenville, ME, December, 2008 - In the Northwoods of Maine, you can embrace the beauty of a soothing sunset or the quiet of a fresh snowfall. Up North Cuisine at the Lodge at Moosehead Lake is a source of comfort – hot, hearty and filling. At the Lodge dine on what makes Up North Maine so very special while enjoying one of the most beautiful views on the lake. Our Chef Jack Neal blends classic techniques with the best that nature offers including seafood, blueberries, beef, potatoes and clams; always with an eye for presentation.

“Guests told us they wanted more casual options when on vacation”, explained Linda Bortis, proprietor. “Our new menu is casual but still sophisticated. The Lodge has been all about experiencing the rustic style of the Northwoods in a sophisticated, warm and inviting environment. We have taken that same strategy to our food.”

“The Moosehead area offers fine dining establishments, as well as sandwiches and American cuisine”, adds Dennis Bortis. “This is something different. We want our visitors to experience Up North Cuisine at the Lodge, like they would experience fly fishing, canoeing, a Katahdin boat cruise or hike Mount Kineo.”

Menu items include such specialties as Peekytoe Maine crab cakes, duck spring rolls, salmon, grilled Maine lobster over mac and cheese, classic clam chowder and s’mores pie.
